It is that he may find his own relation to the eternal, that the child, equally with the grown person, turns to the songs which ravish the ear and gladden the heart.-- Mary E. Burt. CHAPTER VII. LESSONS TO SUGGEST PLANS OF WORK. I.--Lesson upon the Cow. To precede or accompany Reading Lessons which refer to the Cow (in lowest grades). i. Find out what the children know about the cow. EVERY new lesson should be built upon and fastened to the children s past experience. If they have no knowledge of cows, we must introduce the subject accordingly. If they have always known them, the lesson will be merely a review, because the foundation will have been prepared. If the children live in the country and know the...
