Reviews

This pdf is very gripping and fascinating. We have read and that i am certain that i am going to going to read once more again in the future. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

It was soon found that other substances besides amber and hair show electric attraction. Isaac Newton hung a round piece of glass in a brass ring fixed about an inch above a table. He rubbed the glass with some rough and raking stuff, till some very small fragments of very thin paper laid on the table beside the glass began to be attracted and moved nimbly to and fro, leaping upon the glass and remaining there a while, then leaping down and resting there, then leaping iip and perhaps down and up again. This experiment is repeated easily by rubbing a stick of sealing wax with a woollen cloth, and holding it over small bits of paper. Instead of rubbing amber or glass, Guericke rubbed a ball of sulphur with his hands. He made this ball by filling a round bottle with flowers of sulphur and melting the sulphur until Fig. 47.--Guerieke s Electrical Machine made with a Ball of Sulphur. it was quite liquid. Then he let it cool until it was solid, and then he broke the bottle and took out the sulphur ball. He attached the ball to a stick, and when he had electrified it by rubbing, he used it to attract feathers, which he succeeded in leading all round a room by this electric force only. About the year 1730, a pensioner of the name of Stephen Gray found that electric force may be...
